THE LITTLE SEED WHO GREW BRAVE

Deep in the soft soil of a sunny garden, a tiny seed named Sprout lay sleeping.

Every seed
loved to grow
tall and strong.

Every seed
except little Sprout.

Sprout tried
and tried.
They wiggled.
They stretched.
But they stayed curled in their shell.

One morning, Sunny the warm sun looked down and smiled. Little Sprout, I have a secret.”

“You do not need to grow fast like the others,”
said Sunny.
“Your slow growth
is special too.”

Sprout
smiled shyly.
But the garden
needs tall plants,
they said.
Does it need my tiny sprout?

That afternoon, a little ladybug landed on a leaf and whispered, “I need a safe place to rest.”

Sprout stretched
their tiny green leaf
to make a little shade
for the ladybug.

Soft. Calm.
Just right.

“Thank you, Sprout,” whispered the ladybug. “Your tiny leaf helps me feel safe.”

Sprout felt warm and happy inside. Their heart grew brighter than any flower.

Then a big wind blew through the garden and bent the tall plants.

The tall plants
needed help.
But Sprout stayed
low and strong,
safe near the earth.

Then something magical happened. Sprout's tiny leaves began to grow, stronger and braver than ever before!

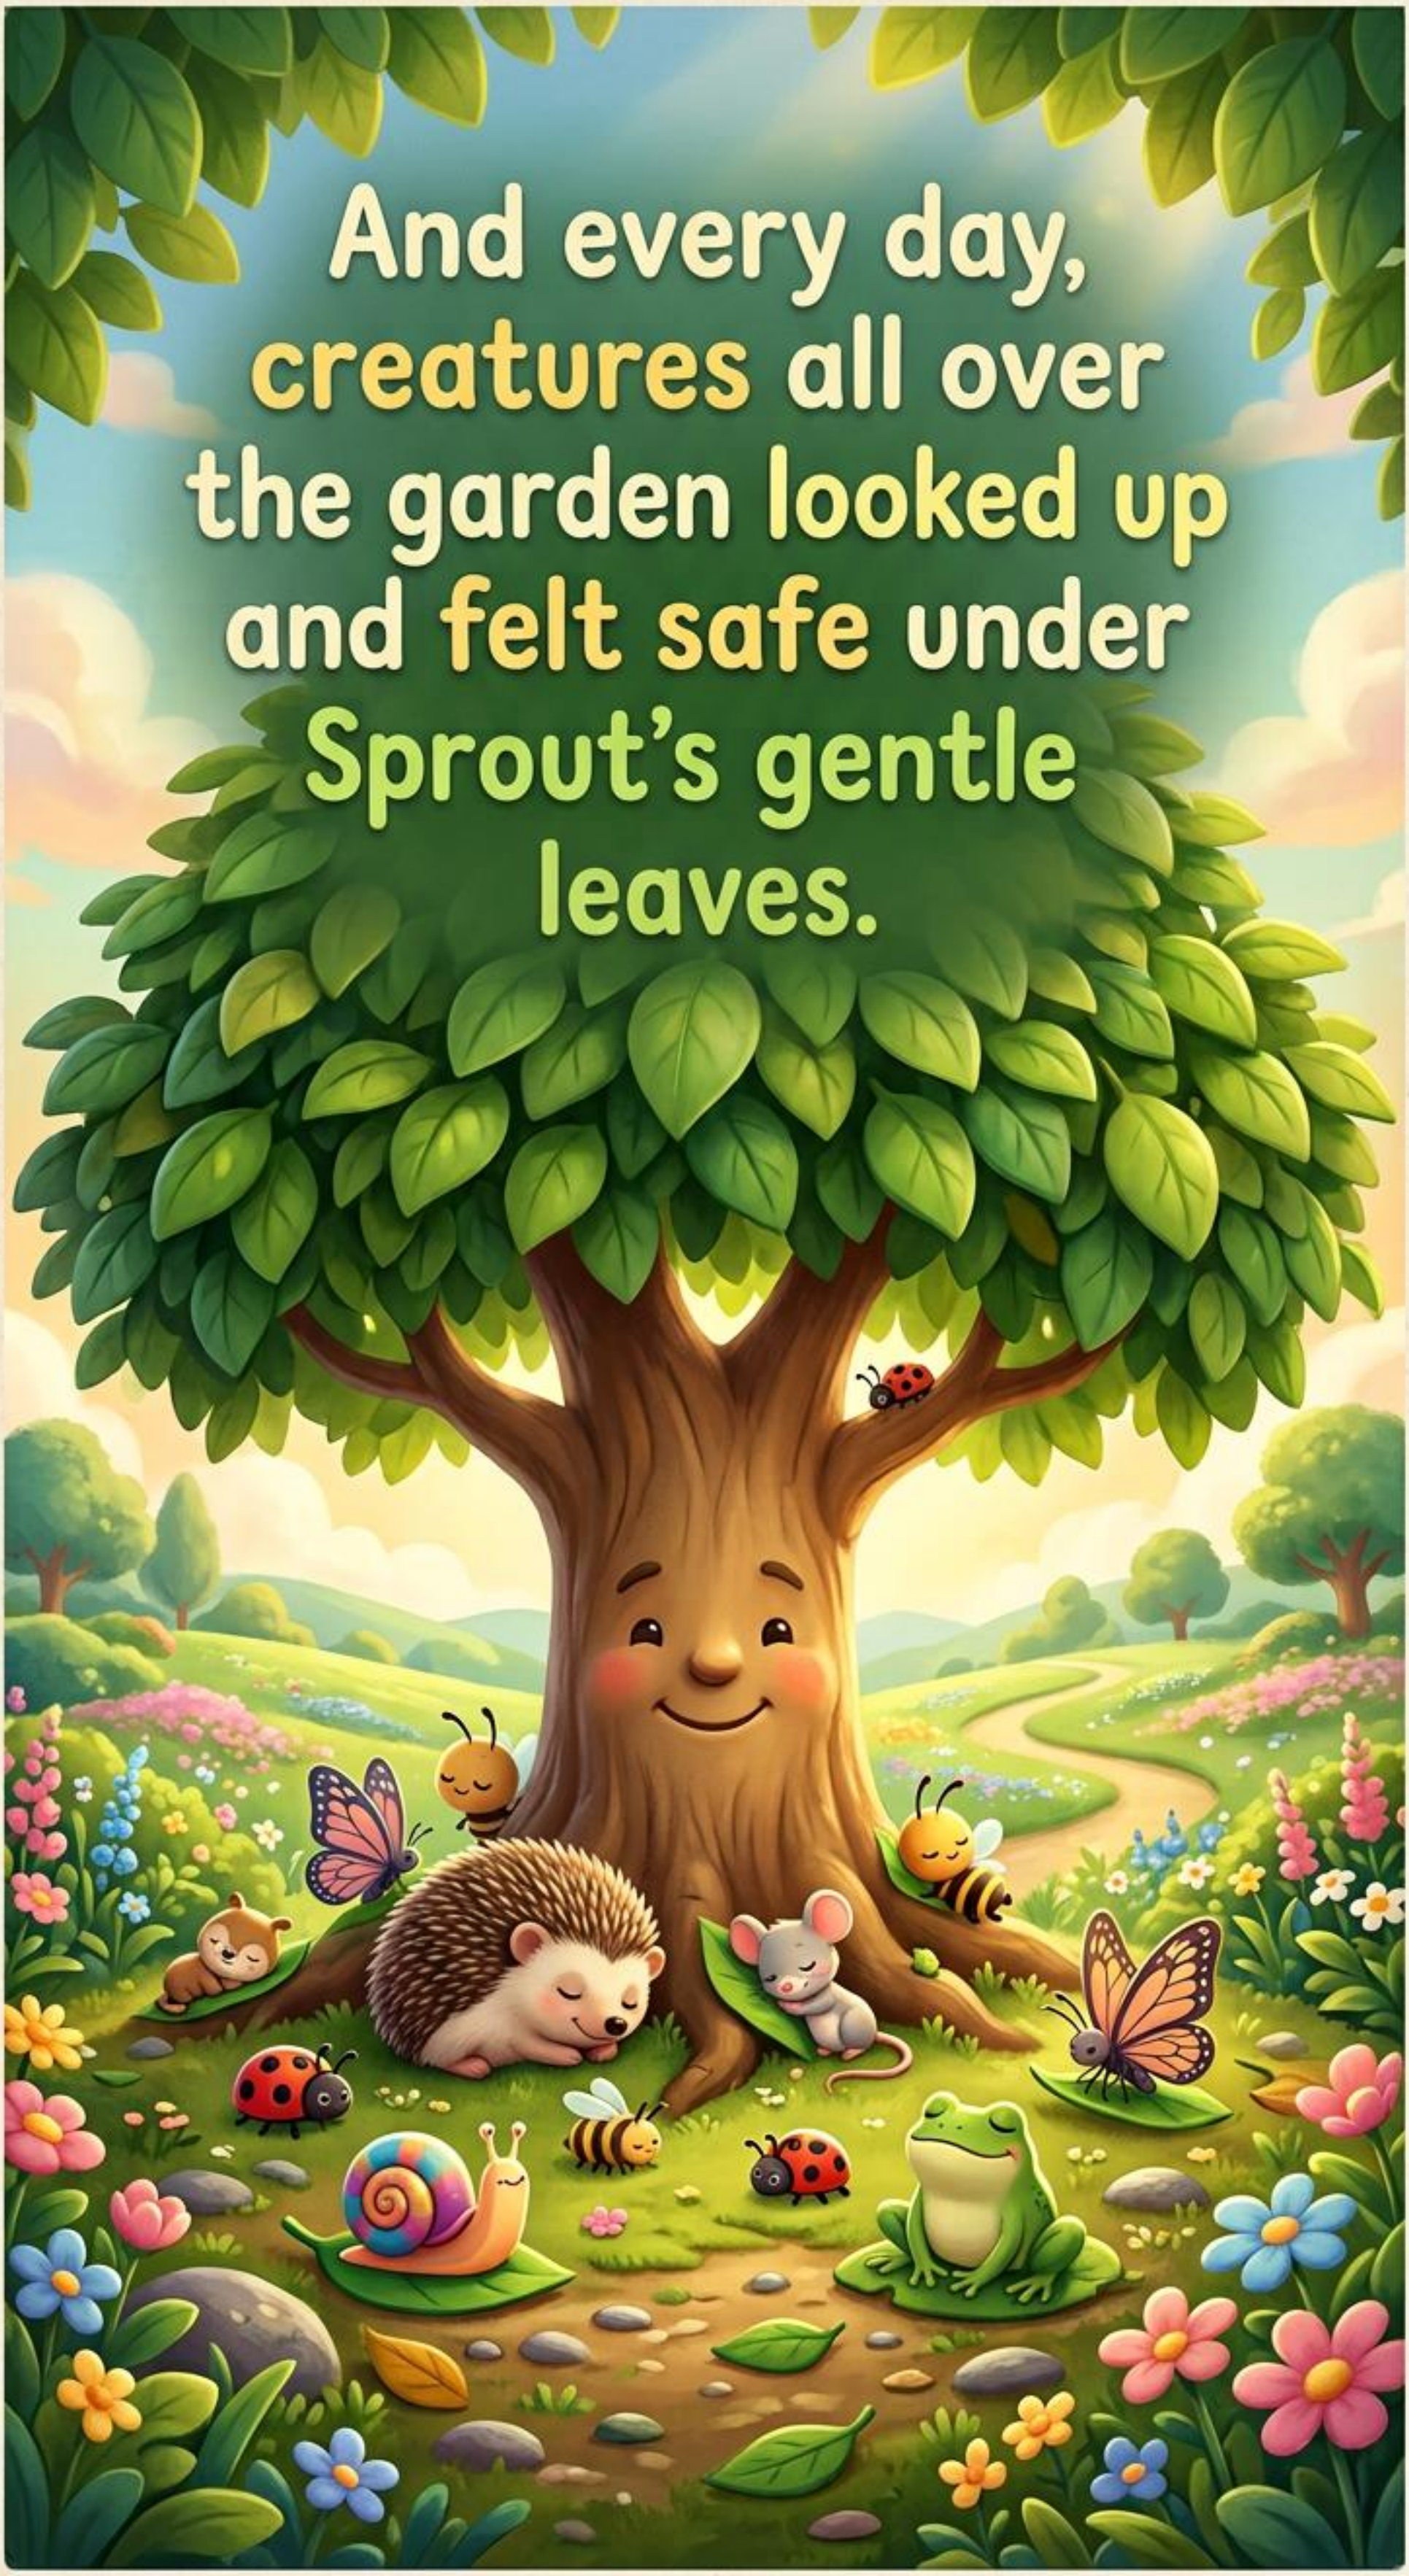

The ladybug woke up and smiled. “Sprout is watching over me,” she said.

Sprout realized they did not need to be tall like the others.

They just needed to be themselves gentle, kind, and growing in their own special way.

And every day, creatures all over the garden looked up and felt safe under Sprout's gentle leaves.

Sprout was no longer the little seed who was afraid to grow.

Sprout is a tiny seed who is afraid to grow. They long to be tall like all the other plants.

When they help a ladybug feel safe,
Sprout discovers a wonderful secret:
courage and patience help you grow into who you are meant to be.

A gentle bedtime story about bravery, kindness, and growing in your own way.
